Minnesota
 from No. 620
 District of New York—Port of New York.

I, James Price, Master of the St. Minnesota, do solemnly, sincerely and truly that the following List or Manifest, subscribed by me, and now delivered by me to the Collector of the Customs of the Collection District of New York, is a full and list of all the passengers taken on board of the said St. Minnesota at Spore & L. Van from W. Van said St. Minnesota has now arrived; and that on said list is truly designated the age, the sex, and the occupation of each of said passengers of the vessel occupied by each during the passage, the country to which each belongs, and also the country of which it is intended by each to become an inhabitant;
 said List or Manifest truly sets forth the number of said passengers who have died on said voyage, and the names and ages of those who died.

Signed to, this

DANISH DAIRY COOPERATIVE

On March 28, 1885 one of Wisconsin's first incorporated creameries was organized as the Luck Creamery Company. The "Organization Artikler" were published in Danish in the Polk County Press on November 18, 1885, and printed in English about a month later on December 12.

The seven Danish emigrants declared that only members of the corporation could own stock in it, and the sale of one hundred sixty shares at $15 per share was authorized. The first creamery was built eight-tenths of a mile west of here on the north shore of Little Butternut Lake. The first buttermaker was a Danish woman who made the butter in large wooden churns.

In the early days the farmers brought their milk to the creamery in cans which had glass tubes or gauges on the side, marked down to one-eighth inches. The cream as shown by the gauge was measured and paid for by the inch. The cream was then skimmed off and the farmer kept the skimmed milk.

Many groups of farmers adopted the cooperative principle to make dairying a leading industry in Wisconsin.

A collection of artifacts related to the 1904 St. Louis World Fair, including a statue of a woman, a map, a book, and various plates and photographs. The artifacts are displayed on a dark surface, possibly a table or a display case. The statue is a large, light-colored, seated female figure. The map is a colorful, detailed map of the world, showing continents and oceans. The book is an open book with text and a small illustration. The plates are various designs, including a blue plate with a white ship, a blue plate with a white building, and a blue plate with a white landscape. The photographs are various scenes, including a cityscape, a group of people, and a landscape. A small sign reads "PROPERTY OF THE ARTISTS BY MEMBERS OF THE FINE ARTS SOCIETY OF ST. LOUIS".
